

It's not fair.

When local contractors fail to pay their construction industry workers the Prevailing Wage, it's not fair, and it's not good for our local economy.

Stealing from just one family's paycheck may keep them from making purchases such as buying a home or eating out more at local restaurants. And that affects all of us. Stealing from hundreds of families is worse.

If you're in the local construction industry and feel you're not getting the Prevailing Wage, we can help.

Prevailing Wage

An hourly wage and benefit package required to be paid to employees working on the billions of dollars of public works projects in our communities.
